Paideia problems and possibilities. by Adler, Mortimer Jerome, 1902-. Publication date 1983. Topics. Education, Humanistic, Education, Elementary, Education, Secondary. However, the major problem, and one that is becoming more and more apparent is siltation. A Massive Problem Siltation is closely related to deforestation and soil erosion. Deforestation dramatically increases the risk of flooding. In view of the possibilities of induced seismicity and subsequent re-induction of seismicity during dredging operations, seismic activities will also have to be monitored throughout the project. Dam deformation measurements should be done on a regular basis. Dredging and silt-treatment control should be continuously provided and there should be infrastructure consultations and measurements. and thought to address the problems and possibilities of narrative, as the subtitle suggests. The book is a programmatic outline for a grand theoretical project entailing many divergent. The problems of narratives are primarily psychological in nature for Herman. Thus, storyworlds are defined in terms of "mental models" (p. 5), and narrative is a "basic and general."
